

【Product Name】

Decellularized Biologic Repair Gels

【Product Introduction】

The product undergoes a gentle decellularization process that maximizes the removal of immunogenicity while preserving to the greatest extent the components, structure, and function of natural extracellular matrix. It constructs an extracellular microenvironment that supports, guides, and activates cells, forming a natural microstructure and microecology to induce endogenous regeneration. It is primarily applied in the field of regenerative medical aesthetics.