

【Product Name】

Facial Skin Injection Pump (Automatic Stamp-Type Microneedle Machine)

【Product Introduction】

The product itself doesn't have direct contact with the human body or the medicine, and has the function of negative pressure. Through a negative pressure device, the skin is absorbed and positioned before quantitatively administering medication to the targeted injection site using an auxiliary injection device. It is used in medical aesthetics institutions to assist in the quantitative injection of the patient's facial dermis.
